

Dollars & Sense: Funding & Planning Green K-12 Schools in Washington

Presented by: Cascadia Region Green Building Council with the Sustainable Development Training Institute

What: A highly targeted workshop providing practical tips and resources for effectively planning and financing high performance K-12 schools in Washington.

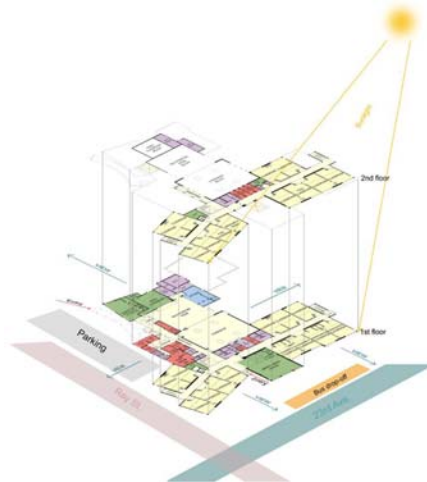

Who: School District capital projects directors, facility managers, architects, engineers, School Board members and others involved in school capital projects planning.

When: October 17, 2005, 1:00 -5:00 pm

Where: Spokane Community College Student Union (Building #6-Lair), Spokane, WA

— Program Highlights —

- Dollars: Learn how to build successful bond campaigns and where you can find incentive dollars to build high performance schools, from Richard Bauscher, highly experienced bond campaign planner and Superintendent of Middleton School District, Idaho, and Mike Littrel, Energy Efficiency Engineer responsible for managing Avista's high performance incentives program.
- Sense: Confused about how to incorporate high performance design into your normal processes? And what it will take to achieve the high performance benefits research is promising? Find out about the new green building requirements for K-12 Schools in Washington and how the Washington Sustainable Schools Protocol is intended to work from Carter Bagg, Office of Superintendent of Public Instruction and Kathleen O'Brien, green building consultant and manager of the recently completed Washington Sustainable Schools Protocol Pilots Project.
- Case Study & Practice: Gain lessons learned from planning a high performance school from Rebecca Baibak, AIA, LEED AP of Integrus, Pilot Project Mgr. for Spokane School District's Lincoln Elementary, a Washington Sustainable Schools Pilot Project. Also partake in an exercise designed to show just what makes the "green design and construction" process different, and how to integrate the Protocol.
- Four (4) AIA HSW Units

— Program Co-Sponsors —

The Russell Family Foundation
Council of Educational Facility Planners International
The Henry M. Jackson Foundation
The Spokane Alliance

For questions about the program, please contact Kollin Min (206) 850-2232 at Kollin@cascadiagbc.org or Kathleen O'Brien (206) 842-8995 at Kathleen@obrienandco.com.

For questions regarding registration, please call Brandon Smith at (503) 228-5533 or Brandon@cascadiagbc.org.

Register On-line! <http://www.liquidosity.com/cascadia/pages/dollarsandsense.php>

$85 before 9/30/05; $115 after 9/30/05 (Members price)/ $95 before 9/30/05; $125 after 9/30/05

Members pricing is for USGBC, Cascadia, REBAR/Spokane Branch and CEFPI members.