Q1. Since 1972 the Canadian federal government has BANNED oil tankers from transporting crude oil through BC's inside passage to protect the coast from oil spills. Now Ottawa is considering allowing oil tankers to transport crude oil through our coastal waters. IN YOUR OPINION, should we (BAN or ALLOW) oil tanker traffic in BC's inside coastal waters.

Q2. The company Enbridge recently announced plans to build an oil tanker terminal on BC's North Coast. Oil tanker traffic would transport crude oil 100 kilometres through the inside passage and along the coastal waters of the Great Bear Rainforest and then up a 140km fjord [pronounced: FEE-YORD] to the town of Kitimat. Before Today, have you heard of the plans to build an oil tanker terminal in Kitimat, BC?

Q1. Since 1972 the Canadian federal government has BANNED oil tankers from transporting crude oil through BC's inside passage to protect the coast from oil spills. Now Ottawa is considering allowing oil tankers to transport crude oil through our coastal waters. IN YOUR OPINION, should we (BAN or ALLOW) oil tanker traffic in BC's inside coastal waters.

BC-Wide ConsumerScope July 2008 Tanker Poll Questions (WEIGHTED DATA)

Q2. The company Enbridge recently announced plans to build an oil tanker terminal on BC's North Coast. Oil tanker traffic would transport crude oil 100 kilometres through the inside passage and along the coastal waters of the Great Bear Rainforest and then up a 140km fjord [pronounced: FEE-YORD] to the town of Kitimat. Before Today, have you heard of the plans to build an oil tanker terminal in Kitimat, BC?

Q1. Since 1972 the Canadian federal government has BANNED oil tankers from transporting crude oil through BC's inside passage to protect the coast from oil spills. Now Ottawa is considering allowing oil tankers to transport crude oil through our coastal waters. IN YOUR OPINION, should we (BAN or ALLOW) oil tanker traffic in BC's inside coastal waters.

Q2. The company Enbridge recently announced plans to build an oil tanker terminal on BC's North Coast. Oil tanker traffic would transport crude oil 100 kilometres through the inside passage and along the coastal waters of the Great Bear Rainforest and then up a 140km fjord [pronounced: FEE-YORD] to the town of Kitimat. Before Today, have you heard of the plans to build an oil tanker terminal in Kitimat, BC?
